Final round (if required)

Even though my body is still tight with tension for this anxiety I'm willing to find a way to get calm in my body

Even thoughI'm still feeling some of this anxiety, I can't seem to let it go for whatever reason, I'm still ok now

Even though these feelings of anxiety are still showing up in my body, head, chest, stomach or in other parts of my mind and body, I'm willing to love and accept myself as much as I can

1. I still feel the anxiety throughout my body
2. It's still right there
3. I'm still noticing some of it
4. There's a bit of it still gripping my body
5. But perhaps its starting to ease just a little bit
6. I can start to take a breath
7. Releasing that tight grip of anxiety
8. From that area of my body

1. Even though I still feel a little anxiety – choosing now to feel and become lighter
2. Its safe to feel my body becoming more at ease
3. Letting that easy feeling come into all the parts of my body
4. Letting my body feel the calm coming in
5. Its ok for my body to feel more calm
6. Learning to enjoy the calm in my body
7. Enjoying that I'm doing this
8. Taking another breath into the freedom that I am creating

Breathe in and slowly out

Take inventory of the body. Notice before and after—some relief & release?

When the anxiety intensity is 3 or lower you may start to tap with positive choices:

I choose to lean into peace

I choose to feel pulled toward joy

I choose to allow myself to feel better

I choose to have faith that the world is unfolding as it should.

...you can add your own positive choices to complete . Deep breath.....

CONGRATULATIONS on treating yourself to some emotional freedom!
